

Automatic audio signal relay

An line level signal detector that commands the relay. The purpose of this device was to automatically turn off the speakers when no source of sound are passing by to the audio amplifier and then turn them on when the sound signal is back on. It helps to eliminate unnecessary power consumption and the annoying white noise when is quiet.

